WILL SHAKE UP CUSTOMS SERVICE

Bill Provides That the President Shall Establish Convenient Places for Collections.

JONES HAS HAD A HARD TIME

Representative Has Fought Many Misdirected Attacks Against Officers in His District,

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., February 2,-There is going to be a shaking up in the matter of arrangement of custom house districts by the present Congress, And ent session thereof. The Payne bill, which has been reported favorably from the Committee on Ways and Means, will become a law and under its provisions the President is authorized to establish convenient districts for the collections convenient districts for the collections of customs, and to this end is empowered to subdivide any State or Territory, or may unite two or more States or Territories, or any part thereof, into one districts shall not exceed one hundred and twenty. As stated the bill will become a law in practically the present form. Representative William A. Jones, of the First District, is not opposing this bill, but he has had to make many fights ir the past against the attacks when members from interior States have directed against the customs houses of his district, where the Income from the collection of customs is practically nothing. It is the belief of such representatives that theonly duty which a collector of customs has to perform is the collection of the tariff on imports, when, as a matter of fact, this is often a very insignificant part of the labor of his office.

Many Other Duties.

Many Other Duties. The collector at Cherrystone, which is the name of the customs house at Cape Charles, Va., for instance, does not collect ten dollars of tariff on imports in a year, but he is hard at work all the that attending to the licensing of the the rand vessels which have their homes on the waters of the Cherrache French th Cand vessels which have their homes on the waters of the Chesapeake. Every vessel in the bay has to be licensed. When it is sold record of the transfer of ownership must be made, and when a mortgage is placed on it by the owner, the mortgage must be recorded. It is the collector of customs who has to look out for all this.

The sub-port on Chingoteague Island has been abolished twice because of the small amount of revenue collected there, and each time Mr. Jones, the last time about a year ago, succeeded in having the Secretary of the Treasury re-establish it.

gue, without a port on the island, were compelled to proceed a hundred miles or to the customs collector to have their license renewed, or must, perforce, come ten miles to the mainfand and thence by rail down the peninsula to Cape Charles. The sub-port on Chingoteague was of the utmost importance to them, though the total of the revenues on imports collected was ridiculously small.

Would Remove Customs.

Mr. Jones has pending a bill to re-move the customs from Tappahannock, where it has been for over a hundred years, to Reedville, Northumber-land county. The change was proposed in the interest of the fishermen, and in the interest of the fishermen, and others having boats to register, but the bill will hardly pass now, Indeed. Mr. Jones sees no good reason for pressing it, as the change, if made, would hardly be permanent, in view of the almost certain passage of the Payne bill, which will give the President absolute power to arrange the customs districts as he chooses.

A bell of wirest investigates to arrange the customs are the change of the payne of the payne of the customs districts as he chooses.

A bill of utmost importance to owners and navigators of steam vessels has been introduced by Senator Frye, of Maine. It provides that all foreign steam vessels, privately owned, of course, shall be subject to the present laws governing inspection of such craft, unless they fly the flag of countries having inspection laws approximating ours in rigidity. Such vessels shall be subject to no other inspection than that which is necessary to satisfy the local inspectors that the condition of their boilers, and life-saving equipment are as stated in the current

Prevent Headache

We want you to know that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills prevent as well as relieve headache, and that they leave no bad after-effects. We assure you that if taken when you first discover indications of an attack, they will drive it away, and thus not only save you the misery and distress, but the weakening influence of pain upon your system. Used in this way the attacks become less frequent, and eventually entirely disappear. They relieve pain by strengthening the nerves and overcoming the nerves and overcoming the turbulent, excited condition, which is the cause of pain.

"We used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills in our family for five years, and I would not like to do without them. Before I found this remedy I would have spells of sick headache so severo that I would be prostrated for as many as 48 hours at a time. The Anti-Pain Pills stop the pain in a few minutes. I have a great deal of neuraligia around the heart, and the Pain Pills also relieve that. I now take them when I think I will have an attack, and they stop it right then. I also notice that I do not have these spells nearly so frequently as formerly."

our laws have never afforded any means of establishing absolute title against all the world. The State has simply allowed owners to record evidences of their title, and has never permitted them to register the title itself. The cumbrous methods, the delay, the costs of transferring title to lands are notorious. Compare these difficulties with the ease, the quickness, the cheapness, by which the title to personal property of all sorts may be transferred, and you will realize how your freedom has been curtailed in the enjoyment of real estate. And when you come to the question of taxes, you will doubt-CHAPTER II.

HOW THE TORRENS SYSTEM AFFECTS FARMERS.

The chief asset of people in the country consists of land. It ought to be a valuable asset, and one that could be readily dealt with at the command of the owner. If you own a farm, it is yours, and you ought to be able to do with it what you please. In the first yours, and you ought to be able to do with it what you please. In the first place, you should be certain that you have a good title to your land; second, you should be able to show your title at any moment without being put to any expense in the matter; and third, you should be able to produce this evidence in such form as to convince the inquirer that your title is good, without his being put to any expense in the matter, freedom has been curtailed in the enjoyment of real estate. And when you come to the question of taxes, you will doubtless have no difficulty in recalling cases in which the lands of your neighbors or friends have been practically forfeited for a paltry sum of delinquent taxes of which they may have had no knowledge. WHAT THE STATE SHOULD NOW DO. The State should now do something to correct these evils. Fortunately she need not make any wild experiment. The subject has all been threshed out, and the problem has already been solved by the great mass of English-speaking peoples. THE TORRENS SYSTEM OF LAND REGISTRATION HAS BEEN FOUND TO BE AN EFFECTIVE MEASURE FOR THE RELIEF OF THE PEOPLE. A bill on the subject is now pending in the General Assembly of Virginia, and should receive the hearty support of every member who values the interests of his constituents and the welfare and progress of the State.

WHAT IT WILL, DO FOR THE WHAT THE STATE OWES YOU.

The State requires you to pay taxes on your land every year at a valuation fixed by her officers paid for that purpose. If you fall to pay these taxes promptly, a penalty of 5 per cent. is added, and interest also runs on the debt. Furthermore, the State will levy on your personal property for satisfaction of her taxes; and if you continue delinquent, she will sell your land and deprive you of your title. We will consider hereafter the unjust and cruel provisions of our present tax laws and the oppressive results of tax sales; at present, it is enough to note the fact that the State undertakes to deprive you of all your title to lands that may be fairly worth thousands of dollars, and to confer this valuable property upon an-

the State. WHAT IT WILL DO FOR THE

FARMER. The Torrens System will enable the farmer to utilize his property fully and freely. There are many occasions when people in the country need ready money of any amount whatsoever—it matters not how trifling the sum may be. Moreover, if the State herself, or any city, town, or county wants your land; or if any railroad company, telegraph company, telephone company, telegraph company, telephone company, or any other company for internal improvement wants your land; or even if any one who wishes to establish a mill and build a dam, wants your land—the State can take it away from you and compel you to sell for such price as may be determined in summary/proceedings for condemnation. And this she can do whether you want to sell or not. Now what does all this mean? It means that the State researds herself as the ultimate owner of all the lands within her borders; and if you trace your title back to its original source, you will find that it is based upon a patient or grant from the government. In other words, the State has always claimed to be the sovereign owner of her lands, but has undertaken to confer tille thereto upon certain of her citizens, subject to what she terms her right of eminent domain. This title conferred upon her citizens has never been a free gift, but has always been in return for what the State regarded as a fair and valuable consideration—usually in money, but sometimes in blood and services for her development and defence. In this way our worthy citizens have been induced to devote their lives, energies, and their substance to the upbuilding of the State. They have repaid in taxes many times over the value of the lands granted by the State, and they have made the State what she is.

WHAT THE STATE SHOULD HAVE people in the country need ready money for business purposes or family necessities. Sometimes they wish to sell, but oftener they find it advisable to borrow. A certificate of title under the Torrens System will be a great advantage in either event. Sales will be easier, because the purchaser can tell from the certificate exactly how the title stands, and will know that he is not buying a law suit; because the whole transaction can be speedily and certainly closed; and because no examination of title will be necessary, and the costs of the transfer will be small. Loans will be easier, because the borrower can use his certificate as security, and will not have to be runas security, and will not have to be run-ning around to find some friend who will be kind enough to endorse for him; and because the banks will be glad to get cer-tificates as collateral security. If the names of people in the country who have been ruined by endorsing or going se-curity for friends could be collected in a modern Doomsday Book, the record would be appalling. The Torrens System will go far towards cutting up this evil by the roots. When you come to think about it, why shouldn't the man in the country be able to use his property as freely and it, why shouldn't the man in the country be able to use his property as freely and get as much out of it as the man in the city does out of his property? The city man buys stocks and bonds, and they are a source of ready credit to him. The country man has the best and most solid form of property—something that has an intrinsic value, and is besides productive of many values—that which is, indeed, the foundation of all values. This Torrens System will enable him to enjoy and use this property as he has the right to do. The removal of restrictions, costs, and discriminations will encourage dealings in lands, and capital will seek this form of investment more freely. The Therefore they had the right to expect and demand that their titles should be safe-guarded and guaranteed by the State; that she should pass such laws as would enable them to enjoy their possessions in security; that she should pass such laws as would enable them to deal with their property freely; that she should pass such laws as would relieve them from all unnecessary expenses in transferring title; that she should pass such laws as would put an end to any unjust forfeiture of any man's land; and that she should pass such laws as would operate as a guaranty of all titles to lands that might be brought under the law for that purpose. and discriminations will encourage dealings in lands, and capital will seek this form of investment more freely. The market value of lands will improve when all questions of title are removed, and when transactions can be had without risk, cheaply, and speedily. The Torrens System will also prevent the forfeiture of any man's land for delinquent taxes. No sale can be made without full notice, under the pending Bill. Final saje must be made on the premises after due advertisement, as foreclosure under a deed of trust; and absolute title will be passed to the purchaser. The property will thus bring its full market value, and the proceeds will be equitably distributed so that the former owner will not be robbed, but will get whatever may be due him out of the proceeds.

Every farmer who values his property and personal rights, ought to write at once to his representatives in the House of Delegates and Senate, urging the enactment of this great measure.

We are among those who, while not believing that the State would be the gainer by him going to the United States Senate to succeed Hon. Thos. S. NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Much suffering from the cold wave, which began yesterday, was reported to-day, when the sun shining in a cloudiess sky the temperature dropped to six above zero. As the foremon advanced with only a slight moderation in the biting cold, many of the east-side hospitals cared for a steady stream of patients, who came in to have frost bites attended to. At the free dispensaries in the poorer sections of the city, the freezing cases numbered scores.
